

DATES: Wednesday April 14 through Saturday April 17, 2010

Musical expression is an art. There's no better place to see musical artistry in its truest form than at this Association of Concert Bands (ACB) national event. Featuring four nights of outstanding and free band concerts, this music-filled event will be staged in the incredible surroundings of the esteemed Eisemann Center in Richardson, Texas. Known for world-class acoustics, stunning architectural beauty and first class facilities, the Eisemann is in a class all its own.

The ACB 2010 event will feature the musical expressions from a wide range of wind bands. You can look forward to original compositions (with world debuts) and audience favorites. Participants from all over the country will attend clinics, roundtable discussions, and participate in the Convention Band conducted by Richard L. Floyd and featuring trombone soloist MGS Bryan Bourne of the Marine Band.

How you can help
